

Oreo Carrot Danger: a play of rituals is a wacky and visceral exploration of love and OCD. Ben is on a first date with Kate, but can't help being distracted by thoughts of accidentally murdering her while she sleeps OR being forced to move to Canada and play hockey 24/7. Typical first date anxiety, right? In a world where absurdity trumps reality, Ben and Kate must find a way to navigate their relationship through the noise. Written by Nayia Kuvetaki.

At this free program, the play will be read by the original actors; discussion afterwards will be led by Joan Davidson, PhD.

October 18, 2017 from 7-9 pm

Berkeley Playhouse,
2640 College Ave, Berkeley CA

For more information contact: Mary at info@ocdbayarea.org or 510-220-8939

OCD SF Bay Area www.ocdbayarea.org info@ocdbayarea.org